DRUGGISTS KNOW A GOOD MEDICINE

I have experienced the handling and selling of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for the past twenty years, and I am confident that it is equal to the best kidney and bladder remedy on the market. It must be successful in its treatment of the troubles for which it is recommended, else I would be receiving complaints, instead my customers seem very much gratified at the result obtained.

Very truly yours,
W. L. STEIB, Druggist,

EARL C. BRACKEN AGAIN REQUITS SERVICES OF SEVERAL YOUNG WOMEN

Earl C. Bracken, the deputy federal income tax collector is again in need of the help of several young women in the line of returns of the incomes of Rock County men. He had the assistance of three young women last week, one was a nurse, the others a teacher and a high school girl, but this week they left for their respective occupations.

Any woman who has spare time is requested to volunteer her services. Mr. Bracken will give the details to her so she can assist in making out the returns. Even a few hours a day would be greatly appreciated by Mr. Bracken and it would be of great assistance to him as it is practically impossible to handle all of the work alone. All young women who are desirous of volunteering their services are requested to get in touch with Earl C. Bracken, room 21 in the post office.

SHARON

Sharon, Jan. 27.—The Sharon public school has been forced to close on account of no fuel.

Miss Gladys Williams, who teaches in the Lowell district, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation as there is no fuel.

Miss Lillian Piper and daughter Jeanette went to Rockford Saturday for a visit with her brothers who reside there.

Miss Laura Densmore, who attends Whitewater Normal Saturday, returned to her home in Beloit Sunday. She was accompanied by her son Ralph, who will enter the senior class of the Beloit high school.

Rev. Perry Miller was unable to come to Sharon Saturday and hold quarterly conference on account of the 4:20 train not coming through.

Fred Vorkooper returned Saturday from an extended visit with his son and family at Rockford, Iowa. He was accompanied home by his son Robert, who is stationed at Camp Grant.

NOTICE—The Gazette is on sale in Sharon at Plan's restaurant.

FORMER LOCAL MAN ON WAR MISSION TO NATIONAL CAPITAL

T. T. Blakely, brother of Fred Blakely of this city, leaves for Washington on Okmulgee Industrial Representative.

T. T. Blakely, formerly of Janesville, now secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Okmulgee, Okla., left for Washington yesterday as a special industrial commissioner from the southwest section of the country. Mr. Blakely is a brother of Fred Blakely of this city and attended the public schools here, later graduating from the University of Wisconsin. During his visit to the national capital he is to seek contracts for war material which can easily and profitably be manufactured in Oklahoma, southern Kansas, and northern Texas. The idea of an industrial representative from that section originated with Mr. Blakely, and he has secured the unanimous endorsement of members of the Chamber of Commerce.

He will seek an appointment on some war industries board as a special representative from Oklahoma. He will not sever his connection with the Okmulgee Chamber of Commerce, but will simply go on a special mission.

RELIEF FUND GIVEN BOOST IN THIS CITY

Leaders in Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund Campaign Thank Gazette for Co-operative Spirit Shown.

During the campaign launched in this city recently and featured by the Gazette for funds to give aid to the suffering Armenians and Syrians, the fund has already been sent to Cleveland, N. D., Dodge, treasurer of the American committee in charge of the relief of the Armenians, and following the receipt of cable telling of the interest of the Armenians and Syrians, was able to send $75,000 to their relief and that it is their desire to be able to send more.

A letter has been received from the American committee thanking the Gazette for the aid given to the suffering Armenians and Syrians, and that the fund has already been sent to Cleveland, N. D., Dodge, treasurer of the American committee in charge of the relief of the Armenians, and following the receipt of cable telling of the interest of the Armenians and Syrians, was able to send $75,000 to their relief and that it is their desire to be able to send more.

The following letter was received by the Gazette thanking them for their aid in the relief work:

"Dear Sir:—Allow me to express to you and the Gazette management appreciation for your work and interest in behalf of the Armenian, Syrian relief work for Christmas. Coming as it did during your busy holiday weeks it was surely very considerate of you to have taken an active interest and to have contributed the necessary materials in such generosity. Janesville is very fortunate in having such a liberal and cosmopolitan news press.

"I am informed that the city of La Crosse raised for this same relief $5,000 during the campaign. However, under the conditions of our small campaign, I should say that Janesville deserves much credit, and is glad to be listed among those who are relieving the war-stricken people.

"I note through the published letters of the Janesville boys' club that the great results accomplished by the American Relief Committee in the various sections, and feel sure every contributor of this city could have no better satisfaction than their sacrifices were worth while. MANY STUDENTS IN HIGH SCHOOL ABSENT MONDAY

Due to the small pox scare, the sore arms resulting from vaccination, and the snow storm which swept the country Sunday night, more than twenty persons of the school were unable to resume their studies at the high school yesterday. This is perhaps the largest number of absentees from the school this year. Many of the country students were snow-bound and were unable to reach the city, while a much larger number were on the sick list as the result of recent vaccinations.

During the past week the school building was given a thorough cleaning from top to bottom and every desk and floor given a good scrubbing. Because of the shortage of labor many of the older students were employed to help carry on the work.

SHEEP CONTESTANTS IN OTHER COUNTIES PAY HIGHER PRICES

Boys and Girls in Buffalo County Pay From $23 to $25 for Ewes—Sold in Rock County for $14.75.

Boys and girls of this county sheep contest bought their sheep at a price far below that paid by contestants in other counties. The 111 ewes which were distributed among thirty-seven boys and girls two months ago sold at $14.75 each.

In a contest recently begun in Dane county seventy ewes were purchased at a price of $20 apiece, while in Buffalo county the prices ranged from $23 to $25.

The reason for this saving of money to Rock county contestants is obvious. Sheep for the contest in this locality were purchased before any other such were purchased elsewhere. By the time the demand for sheep was less than the supply. Other counties recognizing the advisability of obtaining sheep for the contest, immediately purchased sheep. With the increased demand, prices were raised, resulting in a much greater cost to the contestants in other counties.

RESIGNS AS MEMBER OF EXEMPTION BOARD

County Clerk Howard Lee Resigns Owing to Press of Other Work.

—Fifty More Men Ordered to Appear Saturday.

County Clerk Howard Lee has just received notice from Governor Philipp that his resignation from the local exemption board has been accepted. Mr. Lee was forced to retire from the board after having been a member for six months. It is not probable that a successor will be appointed as the number of the present number of members of the board is small.

There are at present only five members of the board: S. W. Hickley, A. E. Wm. McInnis, J. P. Hickley, A. E. Wm. McInnis, and Dr. Penber. Examination of registrants in the first class will begin Thursday morning, continuing until all men in class No. 1 have been examined.

At the annual conference of the American committee held in New York city last week $1,200,000 was appropriated for relief of the Armenians, Syrians, Greeks and other subject destitute races in western Asia, to be distributed by responsible American administrators. Reports given at the meeting by men who have visited in those destitute districts show that immediate aid is necessary to halt the wave of death which is fast sweeping over the people living there.

The following letter was received by the Gazette thanking them for their aid in the relief work:

"Dear Sir:—Allow me to express to you and the Gazette management appreciation for your work and interest in behalf of the Armenian, Syrian relief work for Christmas. DUROC BREEDERS TO HOLD SALE FRIDAY

Fifty-One Head Will Be Auctioned at Rink Friday Evening at 7:00—Sow Will Be Sold for Red Cross Benefit.

Owing to the paralyzed condition of train service and the snow bound roads throughout the county yesterday, the sale of Duroc hogs which was to be held at the rink, but was postponed until Friday evening.

Many farmers with hogs to sell were unable to reach the city so it was found necessary to change the date. The sale will be held at seven o'clock Friday evening with Col. Lighart, Col. Dooley, Col. Taves, and Col. Hellen, as the auctioneers in charge. Col. Lighart of Elmhurst, Ill., is the national authority on hogs, and during the evening will give an interesting talk on "Hog Production" which will prove helpful to breeders of all kinds of hogs.

Plans are being made for a large attendance as many more will be able to attend in the evening than in the afternoon. The building will be warm and well lighted and an invitation to everyone, whether buyers or spectators, to be present.

GUERNSEY BREEDERS MEET AT COURT HOUSE TODAY

Although the attendance at the annual meeting of the Rock County Guernsey Breeders' Association at court house today, was not as great as was expected, those who were present conducted an interesting meeting.

Reports of the officers of the association were made and plans for the coming year were outlined. The board of directors of the association, which is composed of the following: John L. Fisher, J. J. McCann, and Lloyd Selck, Duroc breeders of Rock county.

Plans are being made for a large attendance as many more will be able to attend in the evening than in the afternoon. The building will be warm and well lighted and an invitation to everyone, whether buyers or spectators, to be present.

Today was the anniversary of the birth of William McKinley. It was also the birthday of County Clerk Howard Lee who celebrated it in a fitting manner. As has been his custom in former years he presented each of the girls at the court house with a pink carnation.

MONDAY'S MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Hog market advanced sharply yesterday, with late buyers mostly 25c above Saturday's low time. Some underweights showed nearer 50c gain, while the top was up only 10c at $15.90.

A general narrowing of the price range in the hog trade, the top and average at $15.90 and $15.72 respectively being nearer together than in many past weeks. The tendency of values at present is higher.

Receipts of cattle were very small and the demand active, resulting in an uneven advance to practically all classes, with some of the in-between classes, such as 85c above last week's close.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $15.72, against $15.65 Saturday, $15.60 Wednesday, $11.60 a year ago and $7.84 two years ago.

Cattle Gain Sharply. Steers sold 25¢@50¢ higher yesterday, and beef steers 15¢@20¢ higher. Butcher showed 25¢ gain. Stockers and feeders were steady to 2¢ higher with winter demand light owing to the weather. Quotations: Choice to fancy steers, $12.85@14.00. Poor to good steers, 9.25@12.75. Yearlings, fat, 10.50@11.75. Fat cows and heifers, 7.65@11.60. Canning cows and cutters, 6.25@7.88. Native bulls and stags, 6.85@10.25. Feeding cattle, 6.00 to 6.75@10.60. 1,100 lbs. and over, 8.75@15.00. Poor to good, 6.75@15.00.

Hog Prices Advance. Most hogs sold 15¢@25¢ higher yesterday, and trade was active except on a few corners. Demand and low prices. Top for several loads was $15.90, against $15.60 a week earlier. Pigs were mainly 50¢ higher and best sold at $14.25. Quotations: Bulk of sales, 15.55@15.85. Heavy butchers and shipping, 15.70@15.90. Light butchers, 15.00@15.90. Light, Bacon, 14¢ to 19¢. Lard, 15.10@15.75. Heavy packing, 28¢ to 40¢. Lard, 15.40@15.70. Medium packing, 20¢ to 25¢. Rough, heavy packing, 15.35@15.65. Poor to best pigs, 6¢ to 12¢. 125 lbs. and over, 12.00@14.50. Stage, 8¢ to 10¢. Cabbage per head, 15.65@16.15.

Few Sheep Arrive.

Not many aged and yearling sheep showed up yesterday and prices were unchanged. The lot of importance being a string of western wethers at $13.50. Lambs were steady to 15¢ higher, but closed weak with late last week's light stock reaching $15.65 some 100-lb. stock making $15.65.

(6) Old rose and Copenhagen.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am allowed two hundred dollars a year because my clothes and board, which are of the best and plenty. I have two passions: a little niece and a brother in the army. I use very little of my allowance on myself, but most of it on these two.

I go with a fellow who makes twenty dollars a week. His folks are well to do and he's their baby. He is very anxious for us to get married.

Of course his folks would expect us to live with them and like them very much and they seem to like me.

Do you think we could live on twenty dollars? Of course he'll get raises in the future as in the past. There isn't any other fellow who does any more than speak to, but I'm not as passionate nor feel toward him as I do to my brother and niece, but I could never stand for him to go out of my life.

Please advise me.

With the present prices so high and living expenses so much more than they used to be, you would find that the twenty dollars didn't go very far toward supporting the two of you.

In a case where a raise in salary is expected it is always wiser to wait pecting it and then run the chance of being disappointed.

You may want this young man for a friend, but your letter does not sound as though you really love him, and marriage without love would be a failure. The best thing for you to do is to wait a while and see if you want to marry him in a year or two.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been writing to a young man in another city during the past few weeks. Recently when he came up to this town which is where his parents live, he went to see several of the other young ladies here, but didn't call on me or even telephone me. I saw him on the street one day and he didn't seem to notice me. Do you think that I ought to drop him and never write again or what shall I do?

I think you should drop him.

If I were you I would not write to him and when he comes to the town

again pay him back in his own coin

just not as if you didn't see him the way he acted with you. If he cares for you and has been the victim of some idle gossip on in some way has been deceived, he will write you asking what is the trouble and then you can straighten matters out if you still care to.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt with answer in this paper

all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired enclose a two-cent stamp.)

When entertaining a caller, suggest that she open her wraps, or lay aside her furs, but do not ask her to remove them.

L. D. When a gentleman goes to call upon a lady who is visiting in the city, he must ask for the hostess as well as the visitor, and send in a card with him. She will doubtless extend various courtesies to him during the visit of her friend, and if a lady wishes to be introduced to him, she must do so before or after the introduction. If no invitations are forthcoming, he must not call again unless especially invited to do so.

HARRY: If you are interrupted in the midst of telling a story or relating an incident, by the arrival of a person, you must stop while greetings are exchanged, after which you must repeat your tale from the beginning for the benefit of the late comer. An anecdote related during a conversation should always be short and pertinent to the subject under discussion.

CREAMED EGGS

Boil two eggs for twenty minutes;

add in cold water, and remove the shell and cut in small pieces. Prepare a large cupful of seasoned cream sauce from a tablespoonful each of melted butter and flour, one cupful of milk, and paprika and salt to taste. When the sauce boils and is very smooth, add one-half teaspoonful of anchovy paste, stir well, and solved, and add one-half cupful of chopped parsley. The anchovy paste can be purchased in small china jars. As this condiment is rather salty, do not add much of it.

HOLLANDAISE DRESSING

Boil one egg for twenty minutes;

cool in cold water, and remove the shell. Mash in a mortar, and add one tablespoonful of French mustard,

one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt,

one-eighth of a teaspoonful of vegetable oil and about two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Stir the dressing until well thickened. This variety of dressing is particularly recommended for all green salads.

BREADS.

Potato Muffins—Mashed

potatoes and flour, say one quart of each; two tablespoons butter,

a little salt and milk enough to make a batter same as griddle cakes. To this add one teaspoon fresh yeast. Let it raise until light and bubbles of air form, then dissolve one teaspoon soda in a tablespoon of warm water, and add to batter. Bake in muffin pan.

These are good with fried chicken or roast meats, and this is a good saving of wheat biscuits.

Cornbread without shortening—

One cup cornmeal, one cup flour, one cup milk, three-quarters teaspoon soda, one egg, salt and one tablespoon sugar.

Mix thoroughly all the dry ingredients, then add beaten egg and lastly the sour milk in which the soda has been dissolved. Delicious eaten with butter or honey or served with cold milk.

Light Johnnycake—One cup cornmeal, one cup rye flour, one cup sweet milk, one-half cup melted butter, fry in one-half cup sugar, two heaping teaspoons baking powder,

salt to suit.

Stir well together, add baking powder last. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serve cold.

Eli Pluckens patted his faithful plough good-by. The Dodge and Western Railroad had just paid him

$75,000 for right of way through his farm.

"A reservior for ever, off plough," said Pluckens. "No more farm work for your Uncle Eli." "I'm off to the city to see Cousin Ware Izzi. He's a great stockman man, off plough," an' he kin tell me how to invest my money in Liberty Bonds."

"Why, Uncle Eli, don't be foolhardy-

ish!" laughed Ware Izzi. "Liberty

Bonds will only pay you four per cent."

"I kin invest your $75,000 in a third of a cent interest at the very least."

"Wall, Cousin Ware," began Pluck-ens dubiously, "I kinder thought mebby Liberty Bonds was nonsense!"

said Ware Izzi. And he took the $75,000 and the next day presented Cousin

Eli with 5,000 beautifully hemstitched

Her Great Adventure

LIFE MOCKS.

In a family like the Bertons' there is usually a goal. Claire was the youngest of four. Her sister Angie could just as well have shouldered some of the responsibility and done

some of the dish washing and sweeping and cooking and mending and bargaining and mending and mending and the million other things that keep a household going.

But Angie was the pretty one. She managed to get the best of everything there was, which wasn't any two much. Angie always had invitations to the firemen's ball and the Shovel-spear club's entertainments. Claire made her frills, steamed and pressed her ribbons, trimmed her hats and did the work Angie should have done.

There was Abigail, too. Abigail was a year older than Claire and by rights should have shared the drudgery.

But Abigail was lucky. She had been mostly brought up by her grandmother in a neighboring village and the two girls, Claire and Abigail, were usual team of small brothers, dynamos of restlessness in human form.

Peter Berton, pere, was superintendent in some iron works half a day's journey away. He came home every two or three weeks. The neighbors felt he could have got a position closer at hand if he'd wanted

it. He and his wife didn't get along.

Mrs. Berton, she had been pretty and had looked for life to give her everything a woman can usually have by being beautiful. Instead it had given her a husband who never loved her and a life of drudgery. She did not appreciate fate's generosity as to children.

She had never got over her surprise and disappointment. She felt imposed upon and was too weak character to hit back. She just SAT back and got what pleasure she could from cultivating invalidism.

Claire did her work. Claire did everybody's work. The family had

WHO SHALL DO THE COUNTING?

In accordance with peace terms dictated with the convenience of the Bolshevik ministry, Germany annexes, under a nominal system of autonomy, enough of Russia to make the Baltic a German ocean, helped by the benevolent neutrality of Sweden. It is not surprising that the anarchists' foreign government is surprised by the results it has achieved, and has broken off negotiations. Germany now has a conquest which only a thorough reorganization of the Russian army and a revival of the war spirit can reclaim," says the Wall Street Journal.

There is something cynical and card-playing in the talk of a popular vote in the annexed provinces to confirm German sovereignty. So long as the Kaiser's soldiers are in occupation, it is certain that the Kaiser will do the counting, and he even announces that he has won the election already. In a similar way he could achieve an electoral victory in Alsace and Lorraine.

It would be interesting to know the imperial substitute for a secret ballot, but the result would be a foregone conclusion.

There is a precedent which is worth recalling, especially as it never received the contemporary attention it deserved. This was when President Kruger of the Transvaal Republic ran for re-election, after the Janesville raid and before the Boer war, against General Joubert, who defeated the British at Majuba Hill. Every newspaper man in South Africa knew that Joubert polled three votes for one. But Kruger did the counting. He was elected and it would be instructive to speculate on what might have happened if the gallant and honest old soldier had become the president of the Transvaal, even if the Boers themselves now admit that they have more real liberty than they had under one of the most corrupt governments which history records.

In the view of the immense Russian conquest, it may well be worth while for the Prussians to surrender Belgium, northern France and even their ambitions in the Caucasus valley. They would have a complete economic hold over Russia and its immense population. They would control the Baltic, exactly as Russia has been confined in the Black Sea. The independence of Finland would even paralyze access to the Arctic sea, except upon German terms. There would be something to show the German people for the heroic sacrifices they have unquestionably made, at the behest of an insane ruler and a halfhearted autocrat drunk with power. As it stands, the soap box socialist German-Soviet orator, Trotsky, has done more to change the destiny of nations than Napoleon ever accomplished. The Kaiser is beaten, and there is little doubt that he knows he is beaten. But he has now the means of saving his face, and it is difficult to see how the weary Russian, and all the allies together can reconquer these seized provinces, this second Siberia which all Europe in arms could not compel Frederick the Great to relinquish.

THE COUNT.

Now that the question of the filling of the list of names secured for bringing the question of the change of government to a test vote, has been settled, the official count of the names and the verification of the list will be made as quickly as possible so that the election can be called if the list is found correct. It is too early to predict what the outcome will be, but if no more interest is displayed in the desire to stir up discord and upset both business and political conditions on the part of a few disgruntled citizens, that has at present been evinced, it will be but a flash in the pan. All who signed the list can not be counted as directly opposed to the present city government, as many have stated they signed it so as to have the question settled, and not a cause for continued debate for the next two years. The time to have the vote taken is now, according to the law, and it can also come up two years from now again, no matter how decided at the election. Meanwhile the counting of the names has started.

No objection is felt by the Germans to our press censorship, as its effect is to conceal from the American people a lot of facts that the Germans know perfectly well.

There are a good many people who are patriotically willing to take hold and work for the war provided they get twice as much pay as they ever had in peace times.

The fact that a man is causing the government an account of the coal shortage does not prove that he has tried to have a pound of fuel in his own home or business.

It is confidently predicted that if the Russian Bolshevik live to be one thousand years old, they may get to know as much as an American primary school boy.

There are a lot of able bodied men who can't go into some form of war work or food production, because their time is taken up selling chewing gum and ginger pop.

When they see or hear anything suspicious, many people instead of telephoning the police, go home and cuss the government for not getting the spies.

Many of the loudest hollers for speeding up our military preparations were the loudest hollers a few years ago against spending any money on the army.

Also the most logical theory of our ancient friend Mr. McGinty's distinguished exploits and career, is that he was a successful submarine commander.

It is complained by the Red Tapers at Washington, that an order for supplies sometimes goes through now without being signed by all the office boys.

The farmers can't get out and cut wood for fuel, as it takes all thirty time through the winter to read how wicked city folks are wasting things.

After the shipyard got ready to put on 200,000 more men, it dawned on somebody that these men couldn't very well sleep out doors in January.

The men who like to lie abed late Sunday morning are convinced that the churches should close up on account of the fuel shortage.

After all the pleasure seekers have been transported on their midwinter vacations, then it will be possible to carry coal to the factories.

After the stores have candy enough to last them a year, it is then believed the shortage of sugar for ordinary use will be relieved.

Of course the German spies can't be executed, as there is always a comma or a semi-colon missing in the indictment against them.

Sinkings by German submarines have fallen off, but the Germans are consoled by getting a hospital ship full of wounded men.

Some people's objection to the fuel restrictions is not so much that the factories are closed as that the movie theaters can't open.

The young people aren't worrying about the fuel shortage so long as they can snuggle up a little closer on the parlor sofa.

Not merely are they trying to beat Germany with wheats and meatless days, but now they have workless days, too.

The heated arguments over the factory closing order ought to be a partial substitute for the lack of fuel.

Up to date, however, the dogs of Janesville persistently refuse to observe a barkless night.

With our navy after them, the submarines are going down.

TO A FRIEND.

What if I never reach the hills where glory's joys abide,
What if my little ship shall fall to What if I end my span of toil with naught that men deem great
I shall not wall in bitterness against my sorry fate.
I still may hold my head up high and claim this gladness true,
It's something to have lived and known so fine a friend as you.

Were I to miss all earthly goals that men so madly seek,
Were every effort that I make doomed always to be weak;
If never I may know the joys of victory in strife and wars,
I shall not cry aloud against the cruelty of life.
For missing all things else I shall be grateful, through and through,
It's something to have lived and known so fine a friend as you.

I could not say that futile here has been my span of years,
That all my life has brought to me is bitterness and tears;
What compensations have been mine for all that I have done,
I've gained at once the best of stars, the splendor of the sun,
And I should murmur at the end, before my soul withdrew,
It's something to have lived and known so fine a friend as you.

Evanville News

Evanville, Jan. 29.—Once more train service is getting righted around so that many of the trains are not more than an hour or two off regular time. But when one thinks that on Saturday and Sunday most of the trains are late, it does not seem so bad.

This section of the country seems to be in a drought of blizzards. Friday, Saturday and Sunday—and either one week or two weeks apart. The first severe storm occurred four weeks ago, and since then there has been no more like nature since. Indeed it is getting to be a factor that must be reckoned with. If the clouds look like snow or if snow is predicted, people are beginning to decide to remain at home. Invitations accepted by out-of-town guests for different parties are being sent to fall, for who wishes to go away and not be able to get home? It has been years and years since we have had so much snow. The winter is the harbinger of an early spring. If that should occur it will be the first early spring we have had for years.

Yesterday morning Section Foreman Herman Schlem with a force of nearly sixty men gathered at the station to leave on the 8:40 a. m. train for Caladonia and Roscoe to clear the right of way of the heavy snow. His crew was a mighty and valiant one consisting of butchers, barbers, clerks, men of the stores, plumbers, in fact many men of many occupations who were enjoying (?) yesterday's holiday and who thought they would have a good time. But great was their disappointment. Not one could go, due to the fact that no engine was available for their work train. So many extra engines were used as double-heads for mail trains and regular passengers, that a shortage of locomotives was the result.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuller entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stebbins, Mrs. Jennie Wilder, Miss Harriet Gannett of Madison and Mr. and Mrs. Leola Denison of Evansville.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McCoy entertained at a six o'clock dinner Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McCoy, of Beloit, Mr. Charles McCoy of Beloit, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, the Misses Ruth Milligan and Shirley McCoy and Herbert Milligan of Evansville.

Miss Marie Bradburn of Port Dodge, Iowa, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. R. R. Edwards.

Miss Catherine Hedson of Madison spent Sunday with her sister, Miss Anna Hedson.

John Stair was a Janesville visitor Monday.

Rev. M. R. Goodall is spending this week with his parishioners.

Mrs. Robert Hardley is in Rockford the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bert Biglow.

Ivan Fay has returned from Chicago where he spent Thursday and Friday being examined for the aviation service. He was with him in the service as a flyer and successfully passed the examination.

The meeting of the Congregational reading circle that was to have been held with Miss Lillian Gibbs tonight has been postponed.

Mrs. Harry Hanson will entertain St. John's Guild at a "Pot-luck Social" Thursday afternoon at her home on Lincoln street.

The body of Miss Lizzie Kutz was brought from Elkhorn yesterday and will be on Wednesday. She was born at Cold Spring about forty-three years ago.

Word was received here Saturday that Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fuller that their son, Lieut. Henry Fuller, had arrived safely in France. His last letter was on January 2, from New York.

Elizabeth Mae Rogers was born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rogers Friday at St. Mary's hospital, Green Bay.

Miss Irene Olsen was home from Beloit Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. G. R. Horne and Mrs. M. F. Horne spent Friday in Janesville. Florence Brown and Lillian Aylward visited from Friday until Sunday with Miss Aylward's relatives in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cox entertained a company of friends at their home Saturday evening.

B. F. Chamberlain, who has been in poor health for some time, went to a hospital for treatment. His son Robert accompanied him there.

Dr. C. E. Dike and Dr. G. L. Crumb spent Friday and Saturday in Chicago.

Mrs. James Steir fell on an icy walk on Whitewater street Monday and broke her hip.

Delavan, Jan. 25.—Arthur Schultze, the young man who received such a serious injury to his left hand last Monday evening by being tipped over with a hay shredder near Millard, was able to leave the hospital to return to his home near Lima yesterday. The hay shredder was on his way to Lima with a hay shredder and the depth of the snow on the road and the cutting through of one runner caused the machine to slip and the shredder to turn and injure his left hand so badly that amputation of three fingers and part of the fourth was necessary and was done by Dr. Wright who was called to attend him at a neighboring house where he was taken. He was brought to the Rice sanitarium and measures taken to prevent lockjaw.

Miss Clara Colbert entertained the Ladies Aid at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Jennie Joyner was a Walworth visitor the first of this week.

Mrs. Hall, who is now on the Dykeman farm, is enjoying a visit from her mother, Mrs. Hall of Hart Prairie.

Miss Lizzie Delaney is recovering from an illness at her home on Rock Prairie.

Mrs. Bert Barthoff had a severe attack of the grip the past week.

Another change in the Bradley firm has taken place. Fred Merriell retired from the clothing department and Geo. Desch of the dry goods department took his place.

Wm. Hewes is visiting his daughter, Mary Lillibridge and family at Hill City.

Cards have been received by friends here from James Tubby who has arrived with his company of whom he is a sergeant in the ambulance corps, that they had arrived in France and had had a splendid trip.

Mrs. Emily Wilday has rented her house on South Second street to Nick Kestor and will have it cleaned and redecorated and made ready for occupancy by March 1.

Miss Phyllis McSorley has been obliged to remain at home the past week to care for her mother who is ill with neuritis.

The Country Efficiency club held its annual meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hall. The new officers for 1918 took their respective places and a short program was rendered. The time was well spent in the Cross sewing of which considerable was accomplished. The program was as follows: The year and its duties by Mrs. Hurd; reading, Complete Loyalty, Mrs. Ralph Pounder; Our National Army, Mrs. Glenn Nichols; Be Pair to Our Soldier Boys, Mrs. Shimulus. Reading by Mrs. Pounder on Women's duty for the year. The Cross netted eighty-five cents. The prize was drawn by Mrs. Hurd. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Frank Pounder February 7.

Mrs. Wm. Belman has suffered a very severe attack of the grip and is now on the road to recovery.

Mrs. James Mullins was here from Janesville on Thursday renewing acquaintances.

Mrs. and Mrs. Otto Wickman who purchased the Ed Dykeman farm, were here from Hart Prairie on Thursday attending to business and called on Mrs. Wickman's sister, Mrs. Ed. Plimow. Possession will be given them on their farm March 1.

Mrs. Chris. Moser, who visited her children here, returned on Wednesday to her home in Sharon. She was here from Elkhorn the first of the week.

Green Bay, Jan. 29.—The public schools of the city are closed and will remain so for two weeks in order to aid in the conservation of coal. Officials declare that the closing of the schools will mean a saving of from 200 to 300 tons of coal. Parochial schools are still open.

Children Returned.

Manitowoc, Jan. 29.—Six years after her children were taken from her by order of the court and placed in an orphan's home at Milwaukee they are to be returned to Mrs. Andrew Konrocki by the court. The children were taken from the mother shortly before the death of her first husband, Joseph Majesky, but as she has married again and can now provide for them they will be given back to her.

Madison, Jan. 29.—Members of road and bridge committees of various counties throughout Wisconsin won't have to attend the good roads school here. The attorney general has ruled that the expenses of the committee men can be paid by the committees from which they come.

Ice Gorge In Ohio River Will Bring Ruin to Shipping When Cold Breaks

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 29.—River property worth millions of dollars is threatened with almost certain destruction along the Ohio river when the largest ice gorge in the history of the stream breaks with a rise in the stream when the cold spell ends.

The immense ice flow has gorged the stream for a distance of 125 miles from Louisville, Ky., upstream to Higginsport, O. The ice is from two to fifteen feet thick. It is locked helplessly floating craft all along the stream. When the big ice flow moves down the stream it will carry boats, barges, of much needed coal and all other vessels with it. Rivermen will stand by and watch their property begin to journey to almost certain destruction from the icy embrace.

Already the ice has begun its work of destruction. It moved for ten minutes. And in that time it caused a loss of $200,000 in the Cincinnati harbor. Hulls of boats were crushed and barges of precious coal were swept to destruction. When the ice stopped it left craft stranded and partially destroyed.

It is estimated that it will take the ice gorge more than a day to pass a given point and no river craft will be able to withstand the grind for that length of time.

In order to free valuable passenger boats frozen solidly in the ice at Cincinnati the United States government has had a crew of experts at work in the harbor battling the ice flows with dynamite, but continued zero weather seals up the features almost as fast as they are blasted.

Hundreds of persons have abandoned the bridges spanning the Ohio river at Cincinnati and are walking across the frozen stream on well-worn paths. It is the first time in thirty years that the river has been in competition with the bridges.

To the walkers the thrill of Eliza in Uncle Tom's Cabin seems to lose its thrill.

Top—Walking across the Ohio more comfortably than Eliza did it. Below—City of Louisville, passenger steamer, crushed against shore at Cincinnati (left) and another boat frozen solid in path of destruction.

BASEBALL FANS OF PHILADELPHIA ARE SET AGAINST MACK

New York, Jan. 29.—If sentiments expressed in the Philadelphia newspapers have any influence with the Philadelphia baseball fans, William E. Baker and Connie Mack, between them, have perpetrated the two greatest mistakes in the history of baseball. Baker, the former manager of the Athletics, is the target for all sorts of attacks. No defense he can think of is setting him right with the last straw. The sale of Mack to the Athletics, if one was needed, it has been suggested that the only thing left for him is to sell Babe Ruth and strengthen the Athletics.

Just a short list of a baseball team is Baker, the Athletics and Mack. After a couple of years' painstaking experience and a shrewd purchasing Mack had forced himself to a point where his baseball team again could command some respect from its contemporaries. His latest wrecking crew has demolished him of all his gains.

With Strunk, McInnis, Schanz, Bush and the other new players he had gathered Mack was in a position to win a few ball games. The sale of those that had everything in away, Mack has left only a memory of great days. Years and years must pass before he can again expect to step out on even terms with the other clubs in the league. Most of his men are the same line he has laid down for himself.

The draft and enlistments in the army and navy took some players away from Mack, unfortunately the best of his young players have been left. Most of his men are just so-so players, not nearly to be classed as major batters.

There is hardly a chance that Van Fleet can cut out sufficiently to do good. Chester Thomas has passed the height of his effort and he never was any more than an ordinary mechanical catcher. One player is left to be turned over to the Mackmen from Boston. Connie may succeed in turning a complete wreck into just a mere demoralized if he picks the right man.

Most of the oddities with a few yards, however, couldn't make any ball club, to say nothing of the preposterous joke Mack has played.

BASEBALL PLAYERS MAKE MANY SHIFTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Jan. 29.—If the present epidemic of trades and cash deals continues in the major leagues it will be necessary to supply the baseball fan with a card index of the players when the 1918 season opens. During no winter in the history of the National and American leagues have the number of player shifts equaled those consummated since the close of last year's pennant races. Not only in the number of players exchanged, but in the magnitude of the deals have new records been established. Close to forty players and more than $150,000 in cash is the aggregate involved, and it is thought that the statements are correct other similar transactions are still to be completed.

In the American league four deals involving twenty players and sums close to the $100,000 mark have been made to date with an average of five players to a deal. The National league clubs have figured in an equal number of trades but the average number of players concerned is not so high. Less cash, however, was needed, as so far as is known three of the five were made without the passing of either checks or currency.

Perhaps a numerical standpoint the deal between the New York and St. Louis clubs of the American league heads the list. Seven players are expected to change uniforms as a result of this transaction, in addition to a sum of money said to be about $15,000, paid to St. Louis by the New York magnates. The Philadelphia Athletics-Boston Red Sox transfers come next, six players and about $50,000 being involved. This was immediately followed by the McInnis deal, which is said to include the change of three Boston players to the Athletics. Should such be the case the total would include ten men in all, a record deal in modern baseball annals.

In the National league, the Brooklyn-Pittsburgh transfer is the biggest. The Pirates gave three Pittsburgh players for two Superbas.
Four players were involved in the Philadelphia-Chicago trade whereby the Cubs acquired Alexander and Killebrew for Phil Neve and Prendergast and a sum of money reported to be at least $50,000. The Chicago-Boston and the New York-Boston trades were in the Chicago from Boston and in turn was passed on to New York by the Boston Braves.

Sheldon Lewis, the popular character actor of the screen and stage, will return to the spoken drama upon the conclusion of his present contract with Pathe. Mr. Lewis, it is understood, has received such a flattering offer that he has decided to forsake the screen.

Prior to his advent on the screen several years ago Mr. Lewis became widely known for his powerful character work before the footlights. In addition to being starred in photoplays, Mr. Lewis has become widely popular among followers of serial pictures in heavy character roles.

DORALDINA TO DANCE
Doralinda, the beautiful, young and wonderfully formed Spanish girl who is the current New York sensation in a series of Hawaiian dances, will soon be seen on the screen with Antonio Moreno and an all star cast, in the forthcoming deluxe production of Rudyard Kipling's "The Naulahka," a Pathe super-feature.

For her appearance in this super-feature Doralinda has evolved a dance that includes figures from over 250 forms of the Hula which she learned during a two-year residence on the Hawaiian Islands.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA BACKS COMPANY
Sessue Hayakawa, the most popular Japanese actor of the screen, will star in features produced by himself at the conclusion of his contract with Paramount in June. The Master Picture Company has been organized for this purpose, and it is rumored that Pathe will release the films. Aubrey M. Kennedy, recently production manager for Goldwyn, will have personal charge of the star.

GRIFFITH FILM DONE
David Wark Griffith has just completed his latest film, and is now assembling the pieces of film and cutting them down to a practical length. It is a war story, and many scenes were taken in Europe, in ruined villages and on the battle fields. Robert Harlan and the Glah stars star in it.

Billy West, who surprised his friends by composing a set of waltzes which he dedicated to his admirers and presented to the King-Bee company, with the understanding that the music was to be given away as an advertising feature, will compose a fox trot, which will be published on or about March 1, to be released free of charge to newspapers and exhibitors.

Alice Mann, formerly leading woman for "Fanny Arbutuckle, has signed a contract with Essanay to appear opposite Taylor Holmes in two pictures. Following this, she will appear in Christie Comedies.

Claire Anderson, ingenue, has deserted the Keystone comedies for the drama and is now cast with E. Mason Hopper in "John Warfield."

Mrs. Richard Brown was a week-end visitor at the home of Janesville relatives.

Postmaster Hoen was snowbound in Milwaukee the first of the week. This is the second time this winter that a member of the local postoffice force was delayed by snow in the Cream City.

A car of soft coal arrived in the city during the night, which will greatly relieve the fuel situation in the city. Several more cars are on the road between this station and Chicago and are expected in the city any time.

Closing yesterday in the city was observed to the letter, all of the stores closing at noon with the exception of drug stores. Dry goods departments were closed all day and only stores selling eatables remained open.

Train service was resumed here late yesterday afternoon and before the night was over all of the passenger trains went through.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gleave of O'fordville were week-end visitors with friends and relatives in the city.

NO MARINE WILL PERMIT HIS EMBLEM TO BE CAPTURED
Paris, Island, S. C., Jan. 29.—No fraud, or whatever it is, is the cry of the pin-feathered brother Under den Lin. He will ever sport a marine corps ornament at the end of her hat pin if the oath taken today, by a recruit company of United States marines in training here, means anything. This company (designation and destination deleted by censor), in formal costume, swore to destroy their corps devices and to lose their lives if need be, rather than see their honored emblem fall into the hands of the enemy to be worn by his women as a token of victory.

STRANGE PROPHECY OF CENTURIES AGO ON WAR'S OUTCOME

Student at the State Institute for the Blind Translates It From the Welsh.

This strange prophecy was published for the first time in the year 1600: A Lutheran emperor of Germany will be the "Anti-Christ." He will be a man with one arm paralyzed. He will reveal himself in war in the twentieth century. Will pretend to be an apostle of God, sent to punish wicked nations. Will constantly seek God's help, but will conduct himself like Nero. The motto of his armies will be "God With Us," but their conduct will be as the legions of hell. For a long time, by means of spies and plans, he will conquer the world and destroy the countries. Intelligent men will be in his employ to persuade the people that he is a messenger of God.

He will declare war first upon France, but it will spread to be world wide. Not only will Christian and Mohammedan countries be engaged in the struggle, but will come from all "anti-Christ" must be conquered, or all become his slaves. He will murder priests, old men, women, and children, although pretending to be praying to God. He will talk like a Christian, but act as Satan. The "eagle" will be on his arms, also the arms of his military ally (Austria). The lives of more men will be sacrificed to conquer "Anti-Christ." The "Cock" (France), "Lion" (England), and the "White Eagle" (Russia), will not be able to North America, and will be the aid of all the countries. Mankind never faced such grave danger as a victory for "Anti-Christ," signifies a victory for the Devil who is in possession of his own person and his soldiers.

He will gain possession of a great portion of the "Cock" territory, but the "Lion" will appear and drive him back into his own country, and the "White Eagle of the North" will come to subdue "Anti-Christ's" country, and the hardest, hottest war will be fought in his own country, before he follows of the Lamb must crush "Anti-Christ" and his descendants, and the world will lose all the blessings of God.

There will be war just so long as "Anti-Christ" has one remaining soldier. "Anti-Christ" will lose his empire, and the Empire will be divided into twenty-two provinces, but without fortresses, army, or navy. The "White Eagle" will drive the Turk out of Europe, which will be his final triumph by Christians only. Then will begin a period of peace and prosperity unparalleled in the history of the world, when every country desires, according to principles of justice, and there will be no more war throughout all time.

The above prophecy appeared in the "Drevel," a Welsh newspaper, published in 1600, New York, and was translated by Miss Enid Morgan, School for the Blind.

DRILL AND DANCE ON WEDNESDAY EVENING

Regular Drill Sessions of State Guard and High School Companies Was Held Last Evening.

Although the regular drill of the Sixteenth State Guard, Wisconsin State Guard, was of a shorter duration than usual last evening at the armory, due to lack of heat, the drilling was snappy and the movements were executed in a manner which met the approval of the officers. Throughout the hour of drill, from eight o'clock until nine o'clock, the men were kept continually on the march and all the formations in the close order drill regulations performed.

In order to comply with the rules governing the state guard companies requiring that one drill each week be held, another meeting and drill of the company was held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock by the commanding officer. As no drill was held the first week in January the drill Wednesday night will be put down as a regular drill and all members are expected to be on hand or be subjected to the penalties.

Following the drill on Wednesday evening the regular weekly social dance of the State Guard will be given in the armory. The dance will start at nine o'clock with Hotch's favorite orchestra furnishing the music. A concert of patriotic music will be given by the orchestra previous to the dance.

Last evening there was a large crowd in attendance to witness the drill movements of the high school students and the state guard. The high school boys drilled from seven o'clock until eight o'clock and were followed by the state guard. At all drills the public is invited to be in attendance and witness the drilling done.

CHANGE IN APOLLO THEATRE COMPANY

Important Change in Theatrical Enterprise Just Consummated—Affects Apollo Theatre.

It has been announced that the Apollo Theatre Company has been reorganized. W. T. Scherer, retiring, because of various other interests which require a great deal of his time. His interest in the theatre company has been acquired by N. Stephenson and James Zanias, who have also purchased the equipment of the theatre proper and leased the part of the Apollo building occupied by the theatre for a period of ten years. Mr. Zanias for the active manager, which position he has successfully filled during the past five years or since the theatre was first started. The same policy will be continued, playing vaudeville four days a week and pictures the remaining three days. During the past the Apollo has been most successful in their effort to give the public good amusements and there is reason to believe the new firm will devote their energies to keeping up this record of public service. A word of appreciation is also extended by them for all past patronage.

Pat Ryan, the world's champion hammer thrower, talking about Tom Nicholson, the champion hammer thrower of Great Britain, the other day. "You know that Scotchman is a finely developed man. You should see his arms. They are as hard as steel and the funny part of it is he does very little athletic training. But the reason is simple as he owns 100 cows and milks them himself. He is a real Scot, believe me. The reason why he milks his cows is to keep his arms in condition for hammer throwing."

GOES TO CAMP GRANT TO TEACH FRENCH TO SOLDIERS IN TRAINING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—Prof. F. A. G. Cowper of the French department at the University of Wisconsin, has been granted leave of absence to go to Camp Grant, Ill., to take charge of the teaching of French to the officers in training there. The work is being done under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. and the government.

Professor Cowper came to the university last fall from the University of Kansas to take the place of Prof. D. Zdanowicz, who is now in Oglethorpe teaching French to officers.

Five members of the French department are now actively engaged in war service—E. M. Lebert, who went to France soon after war was declared in 1914, R. F. Bradley, Prof. D. Zdanowicz, Prof. P. T. Ernest, and Prof. F. A. G. Cowper.

Janesville Man Would Rather Fight Than Work

"I suffered for years with stomach trouble and could not eat and just hated for anyone to say work to me. I would rather fight. Since taking a course of Mayer's wonderful Remedy I actually want to work, and talk about it, I am the last one to leave the table now." It is a simple, harmless preparation that cures the catarrhal nature of the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. P. Baker.

A Beautiful Complexion For Only 30 Cents

"Keep on using expensive creams and washes and ointments if you want to," says Peterson. "It's none of my business how you squander your money, but if you really want to get rid of pimples, facial blemishes of any kind or any skin disease, my honest advice is to get a thirty-cent box of Peterson's Ointment today."

Men and women: if you want a complexion clean and clear, soft and velvety, one that will compel the admiration of all the people you meet, start to use Peterson's Ointment tonight—use it freely, rubbing well into the skin. Continue for a week or until every pimple, blackhead, eruption or rash is gone.

Don't fail to try it and you can take any word for it you'll be proud of your lovely skin and your friends will envy your bewitching complexion. Any fair minded druggist will back up what Peterson says because he is authorized to return your money without question if Peterson's Ointment does not make good.

You Get Better Cough Syrup by Making it at Home

What's more, you save about $2 by it. Easily made and costs little.

You'll never really know what a fine cough syrup you can make until you compare this famous home-made remedy. Not only does it save $2 as compared with the ready-made kind, but you also have a more effective and dependable remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual cough, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex (60 cents worth) from any good drug store, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Here you have a full pint—a family supply—of the most effective cough syrup that money can buy—at a cost of only 65 cents or less. It never spoils. The prompt and positive results given by this pleasant tasting cough syrup have caused it to be used in more homes than any other remedy. It quickly loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. Splendid for throat, tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis, croup and childhood asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Long Live The King

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Copyright, 1917, Mary Roberts Rinehart
Published by The Ridgway Company

Nicky narrowed lower into the car, and attempted to look like a rug. In the silence, while the sentry evidently examined a passport and flashed a lantern over the chauffeur, Nicky cursed the ticking of his watch, the beating of his own heart.

Then came a clanking as the chain dropped in the road. The car bumped over it, and halted again. The same formalities, this time by Karnian sentries. Then the jerk following a hasty letting-in of the clutch, and they were off again.

For some time they climbed steadily. But Nicky, who knew the road, bled his time. Then at last, at two o'clock, came the steep ascent to the very crest of the mountain, and a falling gear, gear by gear, until they climbed slowly to the crest.

Nicky unfolded his length quietly. The gears were grinding, the driver bent low over his wheel. Very deliberately, now that he knew what he was going to do, Nicky unbuckled his tunic and slipped it off. It was a rash thing, this plan he had in mind, rash under any circumstances, in a moving car—particularly rash here, where between the cliff and a precipice that fell far away below, was only a winding ribbon of uneven road.

Nicky waited his moment, and then, with one singularly efficient gesture, he flung his tunic over the chauffeur's head. He drove a car himself, did Nicky—not his own, of course; he was far too poor—and he counted on one thing—an automobile driver acts from the spinal cord, and not from the brain. Therefore his brain may be seething with a thousand fancies, but he will shove out clutch and brake feet in an emergency, and hold them out.

So it happened. The man's hands left the wheel, but he stopped his car. Not too soon. Not before it had struck the cliff and then taken a sickening curve out toward the edge of the precipice. And atop it, and the chauffeur held it there.

"Set the hand brake!" Nicky said. The lamps were near enough the edge to make him dizzy.

The chauffeur cursed struggling, and set the hand brake. His head was stiff covered. But having done that, he commenced a struggle more furious than forceful, for both of them were handicapped.

And now Nicky was forced to an unsoldierlike thing that he afterward tried to forget. For the driver developed unexpected strength, refused to submit, got the tunic off his head, and, seeing himself attacked by one man only, took courage and fell to. He picked up a wrench from the seat beside him, and made a furious pass at Nicky's head. Nicky ducked and, after a struggle secured the weapon. All this in the car, over the seat back.

It was then that Nicky raised the wrench and stunned his man with it. It was hateful. The very dull thud of it was sickening. And there was a bad minute or two when he thought he had killed his opponent. The man had sunk down in his seat, a sudden lump of inanimate human flesh. And Nicky, whose business, in a way, was killing, was horrified.

The chauffeur awakened ten minutes later, to find himself securely tied with his own towing rope, and lying extremely close to the edge of death. Beside him on the ground sat a steady-eyed young man with a cut lip. The young man had lighted a cigarette, and was placing it carefully in the uninjured side of his mouth.

"Just as soon as you are up to it," said Nicky, "we shall have a little talk."

The chauffeur muttered something in the peasant patois of Karnia.

"Come, come!" Nicky observed. "Speak up. No hiding behind strange tongues. But first, I have the letter. That saves your worrying about it. You can clear your mind for action." Suddenly Nicky dropped his mocking tone. He was in earnest, grim and deadly earnest.

"I have a fancy, my friend," he said, "to take that letter of yours on its destination. But what that destination is, you are to tell me."

The man on the ground grinnedardonally. "You know better than to ask that," he said. "I will never tell you."

Nicky had thought things out fairly well, for him, in that ten minutes. In a businesslike fashion he turned the prostrate prisoner on his side, so that he faced toward the chasm. A late moon showed its depth, and the valley in which the air flowed swiftly. And having thus faced him toward the next world, Nicky, throwing away his cigarette because it hurt his lip, put a stone or two from the roadway behind his prisoner, and anchored him there. Then he sat down and waited.

"Any news?" he asked, at the end of ten minutes' unbroken silence.

His prisoner said nothing. He was thinking, doubtless. Weighing things, too—perhaps life against betrayal, a family against separation.

Nicky examined the letter again. It was addressed to a border town in Livonia. But the town lay far behind him. The address, then, was a false one. He whistled softly.

Half an hour.

"Come, come," said Nicky fiercely. "We are losing time." He looked fierce, too. His swollen lip did that. And he was nervous. It occurred to him that his prisoner, in desperation, might roll over the edge himself, which would be most uncomfortable.

But the precipice, and Nicky's fierce lip, and other things, had got in their work. The man on the ground stopped muttering in his patois, and turned on Nicky eyes full of hate.

"I will tell you," he said. "And you will free me. And after that—"

"Certainly," Nicky replied equably. "You will follow me to the ends of the earth—although that will not be necessary, because I don't intend to go there—and finish me off." Then, sternly: "Now, where does the letter go?"

"I have a fancy for delivering it myself."

"If I tell you, what then?"

"This: If you tell me properly, and all goes well, I will return and release you. If I do not return, naturally you will not be released. And, for fear you meditate a treachery, I shall gag you and leave you, not here, but back a short distance, in the wood we just passed. And, because you are a brave man, and this thing may be less serious than I think it is, I give you my word of honor that if you advise me correctly, I shall return and liberate you."

"I have only your word."

"And I yours," said Nicky.

The chauffeur took a final glance around, as far as he could see, and a final shuddering look at the valley of the Ar, far below. "I will tell you," he said sullenly.

CHAPTER VI.

Two Prisoners.

Herman Spier had made his escape with the letter. He ran through tortuous byways of the old city, under arches into court yards, out again by doorways set in the walls, twisted, doubled like a rabbit. And all this with no pursuit, save the pricking one of terror.

But at last he halted, looked about, perceived that only his own guilty conscience accused him, and took breath. He made his way to the house in the shadow of the park until, an letter now buttoned inside his coat, and, fading the doors closed, lurked in the shadow of the park until an hour later, Black Humbert himself appeared.

He eyed his creature with cold anger. "It is a marvel," he sneered. "that such flight as yours has not brought the police in a puck at your heels."

"I had the letter," Herman replied sulkily. "It was necessary to save it."

"You were to see where Niburg took the substitute."

But here Herman was the one to sneer. "Niburg?" he said. "You know well enough that he will take no substitute tonight, or any night. You strike hard, my friend."

The concierge growled, and together they entered the house across the street.

In the absence of Humbert, his niece, daughter of a milk seller near, kept the bureau, answered the bell, and after nine o'clock, when the doors were bolted, admitted the various occupants of the house and gave them the tiny tapers with which to light themselves upstairs. She was sewing and singing softly when they entered.

"All right, girl. You may go," said Humbert.

"Good night to you both," the girl said, and gave Herman Spier a nod. When she was gone, the concierge locked the door behind her.

"And now," he said, "for a look at the treasure."

He rubbed his hands together as Herman produced the letter. Heads close, they examined it under the lamp. Then they glanced at each other.

"A cipher," said the concierge shortly. "It tells nothing."

"Cipher!" And struck the paper with a hairy fist. "Everything goes wrong."

"A Cipher," Said the Concierge Shortly. "It Tells Nothing."

That blond devil interferes, and now this letter speaks but of blankets and leaves!"

The bell rang, and, taking care to thrust the letter out of sight, the concierge disappeared. Then ensued, in the hall, a short colloquy, followed by a thumping on the staircase. The concierge returned.

"Old Adelbert, from the opera," he said. "He has lost his position, and would have spent the night airing his grievance. But I sent him off!"

Now, as between the two, Black Humbert furnished evil and strength, but it was the pallid clerk who furnished the cunning. And now he made a suggestion.

"It is possible," he said, "that he—upstairs—could help."

"Adelbert? Are you mad?"

"The other. He knows codes. It was by means of one we caught him. I have heard that all these things have one basis, and a simple one."

The concierge considered. Then he rose. "It is worth trying," he observed.

He thrust the letter into his pocket, and the two conspirators went out into the gloomy hall. There, on a ledge, lay white tapers, and one he lighted, shielding it from the draft in the hollow of his great hand. Then he led the way to the top of the house.

Here were three rooms. One, the best, was Herman Spier's, a poor thing at that. Next to it was old Adelbert's. At the extreme end of the narrow corridor, in a passage almost blocked by old furniture, was another room, a sort of attic, with a slanting roof.

Making sure that old Adelbert did not hear them, they went back to this door, which the concierge unlocked. Inside the room was dark. The taper showed little. As their eyes became accustomed to the darkness, the outlines of the attic stood revealed, a junk room, piled high with old trunks, and in one corner a bed.

Black Humbert, taper in hand, approached the bed.

proached the bed. Herman remained near the door. Now, with the candle near, the bed revealed a man lying on it, and tied with knotted ropes; a young man, with sunken cheeks and weary, desperate eyes. Beside him, on a chair, were the fragments of a meal, a bit of broken bread, some cold soup, on which grease had formed a firm coating.

Lying there, sleeping and waking and sleeping again, young Haeckel, one time of his majesty's secret service and student in the university, had lost track of the days. He knew not how long he had been a prisoner, except that it had been eternities. Twice a day, morning and evening, came his jailer and loosened his bonds, brought food, of a sort, and allowed him, not out of mercy, but because it was the committee's pleasure that for a time he should live, to move about the room and bring blood again to his numbed limbs.

The concierge untied him, and stood back. "Now," he said.

But the boy—he was no more—lay still. He made one effort to rise, and fell back.

"Up with you!" said the concierge, and jerked him to his feet. He caught the rail of the bed, or he would have fallen. "Now—stand like a man."

He stood then, facing his captors without defiance. He had worn all that out in the first days of his imprisonment.

"How're you coming along with French?"

"I'm getting there. I invited a French officer to take a drink with me last night. He looked puzzled a minute, then said: 'Ah, oui! pourboire,' and handed me a dime."

"What's the difference between a drama and a melodrama?"

"Well, in a drama the heroine merely throws the villain over. In a melodrama she throws him over a cliff."

"The pen is said to be mightier than the sword."

"Yes, that's an old story. But where shall we place the swagger stick?"

"Look here, now, Harold," said a father to his little son, who was naughty. "If you don't say your prayers you won't go to heaven."

"I don't want to go to heaven," sobbed the boy. "I want to go with you and mother."

UTTERS' CORNERS

Utters' Corners, Jan. 22.—Henry Kosharik had the pleasure of entertaining a company of self-invited friends Saturday evening, who met at his home to spend the evening with him. Henry has enlisted in the United States navy, and having successfully passed the physical examination, is at home awaiting orders to a training station. After a pleasant social evening refreshments were served. The guests presented their young host with a military box of stationery as a remembrance.

Mrs. John Shields has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pitt in Johnston assisting in caring for their little daughter, who is ill.

Mrs. Nina Howard spent the past week with relatives in Illinois.

Mrs. B. W. Farnsworth and daughter visited at Mrs. Mabel Dixon's in Lima Center, Monday.

Mrs. Peter Kosharik entertained her brother and sister from Milwaukee from Saturday until Monday.

Katherine and Margaret found themselves seated next each other at a dinner party and immediately became confidential.

"Molly told me that you told her that secret I told you not to tell her," whispered Margaret.

"Oh, isn't she the mean thing!" gasped Katherine. "Why, I told her not to tell you!"

"Well," returned Margaret, "I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me—so don't tell her I did."

"Mama," said a five-year-old "aren't there any other senses 'cept hearing, seeing, feeling, tasting and smelling?"

"No, my child," answered the mother. "It is usually considered that these five are enough."

"Well," said the little one, with an air of deep conviction, "I s'pose talking would be called a sense if there wasn't so much noise about it."

"What a lucky man you are," said the city relative "to raise all you need to eat."

"Yes," replied the farmer, "but, gosh, blame it, the stuff is all worth so much money it seems rank extravagance to eat it."
